A ROUSING RALLY.

Republicans Held an Enthusiastic Meeting in Central Hall, Monday Evening.

Either the weather clerk did not count on a Republican Rally in Yale coming last Monday night, or the committee failed to consult his docket. But the darkness and downpour seemed to make very little difference. Central Hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience, who time and again made the room ring with cheers.

W. H. Ballentine was chosen chairman and he first introduced Hon. John T. Rich, Ex-Governor of Michigan. Mr. Rich is possessed of a full strong voice, well modulated, and for an hour or more held the closest attention of his hearers, while he discussed the issues of the campaign. He had come to take the place on the program made vacant by the inability of Hon. P. T. Colgrove to attend. The best praise we can give Mr. Rich's speech is to say that we have not heard a single expression of disappointment.

The next speaker introduced by the chairman was Capt. Joe Walsh, of Port Huron, who took up the campaign topics not touched by the previous speaker. He introduced his speech by a joke on our fellowtownsman, Harvey Tappan, that brought the house down. If you were not there to hear him tell it, it is no use for us to try to help you imagine it, or how the boys roared. The Captain is a rapid forceful speaker, with a voice that penetrates and allows no sleeping of hearers. To state it briefly, Joe need not fear to face any audience outside of China, and if he would practice speaking left handed, he'd take even the boxers by storm.

He was followed by short talks from James Dunn, legislative candidate from this district, Spain E. Pearce, E. A. Bartlett, Harvey Tappan and N. E. Thomas.

The music for the occasion was by Wagner's Double Male Quartette from Port Huron. The man who could not laugh, rather the man who could listen to it and keep from laughing, only lacks burial to finish his earthly career. The boys were repeatedly encored, and while the roof wasn't raised nor the walls cracked, there was a noise like an earthquake and hurricane combined. And in these demonstrations there was no evidence of either dumb men or democrats being in the house. All alike enjoyed the music, and all alike cheered.

Candidates on the different national, state and county tickets are thankful that only four days more remain when the suspense will be over with.

Step into Ward & Cavanagh's grocery store, and see that monster cigar. If Bryan is elected Ben Evans is to stand on the street corner, and smoke it, rain or shine, cold or warm. Jack is also under bonds to do ditto if McKinley wins.

We heard a democrat say that if he thought the administration could and would fix the weather to stay as nice as of late, he would vote the g. o. p. ticket straight. Later—The weather has changed to wet, and the mud has come, and we are afraid that vote is lost.

You will not only want to know who's elected, but you will want also to know approximately the figures showing the majorities received. The Expositor has arranged to give this in the extra pages of next week's issue, and when you read it there you'll know it's so.

Clifford Crandall, of the law firm of Cady & Crandall, Port Huron, has been substituted as the Democratic nominee on the county ticket for circuit court commissioner in the place of Thomas H. Butler. Clifford is a son of Rev. Crandall and a former resident of Yale where he has many warm friends.

If you are planning an after-election hunt as an antidote to the tremendous strain of campaign apathy, the prime thing to do is to take out a license. The next thing is, lay it away so carefully that you will be sure of having a deer hunt—if you don't kill any deer—and the hard-up game wardens will get some fees. Besides, when you come home you'll have a crackin' good reason for not bagging any deer.

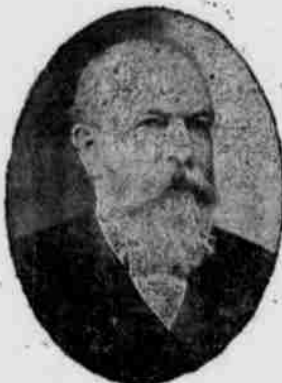

GEORGE W. MOORE.

George W. Moore, is now a member of the upper house of the Michigan legislature. So well has he performed the duties and fulfilled the desires of his constituents, that he is again the candidate of his party for the same station. He was elected over a strong competitor two years ago by more than 1200 majority, and when the nominating convention assembled, there was no question as to who shall be state senator from St. Clair county for the coming term. He is in the prime and vigor of mature manhood, and the varied and wide business experience he has had, will enable him to serve his constituents to both satisfaction and profit. He is a strong man, a man who commands, and will command influence among his fellow legislators. When we measure the interests of this senatorial district, when we consider its needs, we know that no mediocre man can serve us in the halls of the state senate. And these are some of the reasons, and we have many others, why we feel confident that when the next term of our state legislature convenes, Geo. W. Moore will be there to answer at roll call.

JAMES DUNN.

At the time of his nomination by the Republican convention as their candidate for the state legislature from the 3d district of St. Clair county, we called attention to James Dunn. We then gave him our hearty and unqualified endorsement, and time has given us no evidence why we should recall it. Mr. Dunn is himself a farmer, and knows what the farmers need in the way of taxation laws and other legislation. As nine-tenth of his constituents are farmers, it looks to us that one of their own guild would be the proper person to represent them.

He openly pledges himself, if elected, to vote for all equal taxation measures which promise to dispense justice in the matter of burden bearing. We know Mr. Dunn's reputation to be that of a man who keeps his word, and one on whom the climate of Lansing will not work a change. As an honest man he will do honest work, and the voters of this district will make no mistake in voting for him to serve them in the halls of the lower house in the state capitol.

FRANK WHIPPLE.

When the lamented Judge Vance died last April his seat upon the bench of the circuit court for St. Clair remained vacant but a few hours. With remarkable promptness Frank Whipple was appointed by Gov. Pingree to the honorable place. That appointment met the unqualified approval of the bar and people. So well satisfied were all concerned that when the convention of his party met he was made the nominee to succeed himself. And what is a yet greater honor, when the opposing party met in convention, they refused to nominate an opponent by an overwhelming majority. This looks as if the only ways for Judge Whipple to escape the office are by death or resignation.

NAHUM E. THOMAS.

The name printed above is that of one of the Republican candidates for circuit judge in St. Clair county. Mr. Thomas is of mature age, being now about 58 years old. His practice as an attorney has extended over a period of 30 years. For an equal length of time he has resided in Port Huron, and no stranger to the people of this county. He is a ripe scholar, and in his profession has a wide and extensive knowledge of law. As a candidate he comes before the electors of St. Clair county with no sentimental notions, or appeals to sympathy. He stands upon his merits, and in that manner, comes before the people as one fully competent to fulfill the duties of the high office for which he is the nominee of the party to whose interests, without being partisan, he has always been loyal.

HARVEY TAPPAN.

Scarcely a man, yea, scarcely a child in this region need look at the name to know who owns the face portrayed by the cut above. The original is known to thousands in St. Clair and surrounding counties. We do not affirm the beauty of the picture—it speaks for itself. Beauty always blinds us, anyway, and therefore we are an incompetent critic. But look upon the picture and behold the next Probate Judge of St. Clair county.

But our ignorance of art does not in the least prevent us from knowing and trusting the owner of the face whose lineaments are shown. The man does not live who can point to a single reason why Harvey Tappan will not make one of the most competent and prompt, yea one of the best probate judges old St. Clair has ever had. In all the long contest of this campaign, incompetency or unfitness for the office has not been so much as whispered against the republican nominee.

HARRISON W. MAINES.

The name and face above printed is that of a man who for the past two years has been St. Clair county's efficient sheriff, and against whose official conduct no law abiding citizen has grounds of complaint. The report that his administration is expensive is only a story of the crooks and bums, who fear him, and so wish to defeat his reelection. The legal business of the county has so increased that by special act of the legislature two Circuit Judges were allowed in place of one. Despite the increase of business, Sheriff Maines' expenses have been less than during any official term for almost a decade past. And it's just as true that as a man is known by his friends, so likewise is he known by his enemies. A better reason for his reelection cannot be adduced than the very fact that the bum element oppose that result. And the records show that this fearless administration of law is done with the least possible expense to the taxpayers of St. Clair county. Figures don't lie because they can't.

EUGENE A. BARTLETT.

It is often said there is nothing in a name. This may be true, but when used as a handle to personality, there is something in it, a man behind the name. The name set above is the designation of the man whom the Republicans of St. Clair county have nominated for County Clerk. That name also stands for a man who is in every way worthy of the votes of his fellow citizens. At the convention he was the unanimous choice of his party as their candidate for that office. The man is so well fitted for that station, so sturdy in manhood, so uncompromisingly honest, and with all such a prime man, that he needs no words of commendation. He is the right man for the place and he's going to fill it just as sure and soon, as next January 1st comes.

EUGENE F. LAW.

One of the most important, perhaps superlatively so, of all the county offices is that of Prosecuting Attorney. The wrong man in that office can involve the county in perpetual and numerous litigations, and vast expense by senseless or ill advised official action. This fact needs only to be stated to show why the republican convention last August named E. F. Law as their candidate. Mr. Law is no stripling in years or legal experience. He was not satisfied with a mere pick-up preparation for his profession, but took the U. M. course in law at Ann Arbor, of which institution he is an honored graduate. When voters consider all these things, and the further fact that a blunderer in this office means waste of time for the courts and their officials and a reckless waste of money which taxpayers must furnish, we know there will be no hesitancy in casting their ballots for E. F. Law.

HENRY STREETER.

The name above appears on the republican ticket as that party's candidate for County Treasurer. Henry Streeter is now the incumbent of that office, and no man can bring forth a single reason from his official conduct why he should not be re-elected by a larger majority than he had two years ago. That majority was attained over one of the most popular, and capable men to be found in the ranks of the opposing party. Mr. Streeter's official ability was tested for years in trusts committed to his care by his own township. When the Board of Supervisors convened some years ago, they placed him in high and important places, and these duties devolving upon him were performed with the same care, ability and absolute integrity as those are now done in a station of greater trust and honor. The voter is not to be found in St. Clair county who can assign a reason outside of partisan policy why the present county treasurer should not succeed himself, as we know he certainly will.

Right-Away-Quick.

Whether you have anything "up" on the election or not, you are common with almost everybody want to know the results, and you want to know them right-away-quick. To accommodate all desiring to get quick returns, I have hired the Central Hall, and arranged with the long distance telephone company to deliver messages in Yale on election night. The hall will be open from 8 p. m. and continue open until the general results are known. To cover the expenses of hall rent and cost of line service an admission fee of 10 cents will be taken at the door. Bring tablets and pencils that you may note the contents of messages as they are read from time to time. Wm. Coulter.
